ANNOUNCEMENTS

SLATER HALL COURSE.

President Luther Has to Give Up His Lecture in Series Because of Poor

President Flavel S. Luther, of Trinity college, a native of Brooklyn, Conn. has sent word to Norwich that ill has sent word to Norwich that in health will prevent him from giving the second lecture in this season's Slater hall course.

Through the kindness of several Norwich gentlemen who furnished the necessary financial backing it was possible to present a series of lectures at Slater hall last fall. The many expressions of cordial appreciation with which these lectures were welcomed led to the arrangement of a comed led to the arrangement of a course for the present season. These course for the present season. These lectures are not given for the purpose of financial profit, the idea being that a possible surplus at the end of any one year should go into a course the following season.

As during last year the work of arranging for the new series was generously undertaken by Philip A. Johnson of Union street. The speakers son, of Union street. The speakers secured include Professor W. L. Phelps of Yale, President F. S. Luther, Trinity; Aifred Noyes, Princeton; President W. H. P. Faunce, Brown; Professor C. T. Winchester, Wesleyan; President A. T. Hadley, Yale.

As noted, President Luther will be unable to give the second lecture and Mr. Johnson is arranging for some Mr. Johnson is arranging for some other prominent speaker to take his DAVIS THEATRE. Regular Matinee of Vaudeville and Feature Photoplays Today.

Owing to the fact that Creatore and his band cannot arrive here in time to give a matinee performance today the regular program of vaudeville and photoplays will be given. The vaude-ville attraction is the Gray Trio, two ladies and a man, who present a high class singing and piano specialty with solos, duets and trios, which is pleas-ing to listen to. In the photoplays the feature attraction is a big laughing photoplay with the funniest man in the world. Charlie Chaplin. Charlie appears at this theatre today in a four-reel comedy called Ambition, and it is utterly impossible to try and describe the funny situations in this picture. Charlie's ambition is to bepicture. Charlie's ambition is to become a moving picture actor and this four-reeler shows the many amusing situations that he goes through to realize his ambition. Another comedy on the bill is called Making Matters Worse. In this picture George Ovey is introduced for the first time in pictures to the Norwich theatrevers and tures to the Norwich theatregoers and some say he is just as funny as Chaplin. Anyway he will keep you smiling for 15 minutes while you see this picture. His Mysterious Profession is a clever comedy drama that will appeal to everyone. It tells how a ball player won over the maiden aunts of his sweetheart and it was a funny scheme he played on the old ladies. Matinee at 2.30, all seats 10c, children 5 cents. Don't miss hearing Creatore's band tonight.

DAVIS THEATRE TONIGHT.

Creatore and His Famous Band. Those who go to hear Creatore and is band at the Davis theatre tonight will enjoy a treat never to be forgot-ten. Nothing like him has ever been seen before in this or any other country. His sincerity cannot be questioned. He merely allows his emotions to get the better of him, but not to the extent that it is a weakness. His men cannot resist his fervor any more than can his audience, and so the results are not surprising. His band is composed of 50 players who put color into their work and can master a volume of amazing immensity, reflecting their director's magnetism, totally unlike any other organization before the public. His programmes are always inviting throughout. He knows just what he is playing, the story, the music, the scene, and the playing is such that he is recognized by the leading musical critics of this coun-try as the most wonderful director of the day.

The Boston Transcript says: "No conductor who has yet appeared in Symphony hall has ever secured such sounds of thunder, such amazing variations of rhythm, as has Creatore. He has set Boston music-mad, as it is stated he did in New York. He is not only the most picturesque of con-ductors that ever was seen here, but he is besides a masterly leader of men, who has his musicians under perfect control, inasmuch that everything is played with wonderful effectiveness, with force, sympathy and nice dis-crimination. It leans to climaxes of the most abrupt, fearful sort. After you get used to them you learn to anticipate them with a sort of joyous-ness. It would be hard to imagine a band playing William Tell and Tannhauser overtures in a more inspiring fashion. In these and the operatic excorpts, Creatore and his band are in their element and fairly lift one off his feet. He certainly does wonders." Prices for this engagement are 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1.00. Scats on sale at the theatre box office.

nocent Man Suffers Thereby. Pretty Nell Craig, one of the bright stars in the big Essanay cast now producing motion pictures at Volun-town, in an amazing studio recently erected by Manager Totten, is the heroine in a big drama offered at the Colonial theatre today, and entitled The Whirlpool. This is a three reeler and tells how an innocent man suffered, is tried for murder because of an innocent fittation and all heroids. suffered, is tried for murder because of an innocent flirtation, and all because a woman's honor was jeopardized. It is a society drama, and as usual is replete with thrilling situations, beautiful photography and unexcelled acting. Was It Her Duty is a real psychological study—a film that cannot fail to impress itself indelli-bly upon the minds of all who see it, because of its earnest appeal for right. That sometimes a loving mother is misguided as to the future of her daughter about to contemplate marriage, is proven without a doubt, and mothers who have little regard for the future of their daughters are certain to give the matter more than passing consideration after witnessing

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Theda Bara in The Clemenceau Case Today and Saturday.

Following is a copy of a newspaper article written by a reporter who had just seen Theda Bara in The Clemenceau Case, which will be the five reel attraction here today and tomorreel attraction here today and tomorrow.

Make way for Theda! Properly introduced she is Theda Bara, of vampirian fame, and her caress is sure death. That sounds remarkable, and knowing this, would you marry Theda? The average man says, "Sure, I'll try anything once," and that is what happens to most of them in every-day life. They try anything once, and very often it is once too often. In the William Fox photoplays Miss Bara is always a woman of this type, and so eminently is she fitted to the role that theatregoers have learned to look for her in this unenviable capacity. To properly portray a woman of this type requires a peculiar personlook for her in this unenviable capa-city. To properly portray a woman of this type requires a peculiar person-ality and an unusual physical mold, both of which have been bestowed on the eccentric Miss Bara. Her victims are invariably men of talent—men destined to become great under proper influences. In her wake is a string of wreckage—blasted lives and stunt-ed careers. Subsequently, she meets a horrible reward herself, but not una horrible reward herself, but not un-til scores of people have wept over the damage she accomplishes. passing consideration after witnessing this remarkable film and imbibing its message. Appearing in this photoplay are such famous names as Laurie tor company.

Other photoplays today are When Hubby Grew Jealous, a comedy, and The Trust, a new drama, by the Victor company.

POETRY

WHEN ALL IS TOLD. What is it all in the world of sorrow, We're hers today wa're gone tomor-And repair is it all, when all is told?

We struggle and greep for the things of today.

Tomorrow comes and they pass away.

Our eyes grow dim, and our hearts grow cold,

And what is it all, when all is told?

We study, and long for exalted fame.

New laurels each day, to add to our name.

In the world's mad rish, we grow stient and cold.

And what is it all, when all is told?

We trample neath foot the poor, weak erring sinner.

And rush to the front to get there as a winner.

Our brains in a whirt, and our hearts left to mould.

And what is it all, when all is told? We struggle, and rush in the world's mad roat.

The grim reaper comes, we are seen there no more.

We are laid away, in the damp and the cold.

And what is it all, when all is told? But surely there's something that lives through it all.
That conquers the grave, and death's grim dark pail.
There's a soul, which God gave us, to have and to hold.
And that is worth while, when all is told.

There are and, broken hearts, in this world we can mend,
There is sickness and horrow, where with love we can tend.
Such deeds are rare jewels, more than silver and gold,
And they are worth while, when all is told.

There's a God we can love, who has shown us the way.
To store up our treasures, as we live day by day.
Loving deeds and kind thoughts are the treasures that hold.
And they are worth while, when all is told.
